the ever after

FOR ELEPHANT ENTHUSIASTS Spend a day caring for rescued pachyderms at Elephant Nature Park outside Chiang Mai. Hand-feed and river-bathe them in a natural environment. Stay for an afternoon or spend the night, with transportation from the city included.

FOR SERENITY SEEKERS Ko Samui is the spot for spas. Try a four-hour package at Tamarind Springs, where you'll detox in the herbal-steam cave and natural rock plunge pools. Or clear your schedule for the Nirvan Nirvana couples session at Centara Grand Beach Resort Samui's Spa Cenvaree for custom treatments.

FOR BEACH BUMS Live like Leo and stretch out on the sweet strands of Ko Phi Phi Lei, where The Beach was filmed. Arrange for a private ride to its sister island, Ko Phi Phi Don, with Phi Phi Island Speedboat Transfers. Overnight in the teakwood bungalows of Zeavola Resort, and wake up to an authentic Thai breakfast.

FOR DIVING DEVOTEES Ko Tao is Thailand's diving epicenter, and Ban's Diving School is one of the largest certification outfits in the world. From basic instruction to open-water and rescue courses, divers of all levels are welcome. Stay at its hotel, Ban's Diving Resort, to save time on travel to and from classes.

VENDOR DIRECTORY

Having a team of professionals ensures your big day is stress-free.

Now that you're rocking the ring, it's time to assemble your personal team of wedding pros.

First things first: Hire a planner. No matter how organized or detailed you are, a wedding planner will pay for herself — from the money she'll save you by knowing the best vendors to the stress she'll alleviate from day one. Destination planners know the terrain, speak the language and can navigate your locale's culture.

Choosing the right photographer is also key: Once your big day is over, your photos will be the most valued keepsakes to remind you of your experience in paradise.

Here are vendors seasoned in planning from afar — find the right one so you can get hitched without a hitch.

VENDOR TIPS

- SARAH KLINE, TIME FOR TRAVEL LTD
